

BUILDING BETTER POLICIES: Performance and Measuring Results

Governments around the world face ongoing pressures from citizens to provide more and better public services under tight fiscal constraints. The implementation of information, monitoring and evaluation systems helps governments understand which programs to expand, redesign or eliminate. There is growing experience in creating and managing these systems to improve service delivery and results in both OECD and middle-income countries. This session will bring together senior government officials and practitioners from Brazil, Indonesia, Mexico, South Africa, and South Korea who are innovating and leading the way in the use of information, monitoring, and evaluation to influence policy design. The audience for the event includes governments, international organizations, and non-government organizations who will be attending the Spring Meetings.
